DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 1 and 13-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sandrin et al. in view of Arai.

Re claims 1 and 13-21, Sandrin et al. teach a dynamic state sensing movable member magnetically actuated motion control device, the magnetically actuated motion control device including a housing (24), said housing defining a cavity for receiving a movable member (22) in said cavity relative to the housing, an electromagnetic coil (80), the electromagnetic coil generating a magnetic field to attract the housing magnetic field attracted material into contact with the movable member when supplied with a current to control motion of the movable member relative to the housing in which the movable member is located. However, Sandrin et al. do not teach the sensor comprising: a first member secured to the housing of the magnetically actuated motion control device; and a second member coupled to the movable member, wherein relative position between the first member and the second member indicates the position of the movable member relative to the housing. Arai teaches the sensor comprising: a first member (13) secured to the housing (4) of the magnetically actuated motion control device; and a second member (17) coupled to the movable member (1), wherein relative position between the first member and the second member indicates the position of the movable member relative to the housing. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided the sensor of Arai in the motion control device of Sandrin et al. in order to provide a means for selectively changing the damping characteristics of the motion control device based on its movement.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

- 4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Carter, Jr. teaches a dynamic state sensing movable member magnetically actuated motion control device and a sensor comprising: a first member secured to the housing of the magnetically actuated motion control device; and a second member coupled to the movable member, wherein relative position between the first member and the second member indicates the position of the movable member relative to the housing
- 5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
